offerings catering to a wider audience of podcasters, videographers, vloggers and more.

BEACN's software has been developed and tested with macOS 12, 13, and the very latest macOS Sonoma (macOS 14). Key features of the beta version include:

- Enhanced Compatibility: The software has been developed to ensure compatibility with macOS, allowing users to seamlessly connect and control their BEACN devices.
- Intuitive User Interface: The user interface takes its design from its Windows counterpart to provide a user-friendly experience, enabling users to easily navigate through various settings and customize their audio preferences.
- Advanced Audio Controls: The software offers advanced audio controls, empowering users to fine-tune their audio output, adjust microphone sensitivity, and optimize sound quality according to their specific needs.

"When we launched BEACN products in 2022, we knew we wanted to support the macOS ecosystem as part of our future software roadmap. Being able to offer our products to Mac-based creators is a crucial step in expanding our customer base and we're very happy to reach this milestone," says Craig Fraser, CEO of BEACN.

BEACN invites macOS users to participate in the beta testing phase and provide valuable feedback to further refine the software before its official launch. Users can download the beta version from BEACN's download page and share their feedback through the dedicated support channels.
